ASSESSMENT

Clear answers
using aptitude
and potential
assessment.

Do candidates meet
the target function's
requirements?

Where does your employees' potential
lie?

How can employees'
skills be further
developed and used?

Assessments by WILHELM are independent appraisals of aptitude and potential for new hires or changes of function or when you are planning stages in your employees' development.

Wilhelm assessments are conducted for our customers both in the selection process during recruitment and for the targeted further development of employees. This independent analysis of aptitude and potential is based on a combination of performance tests, personality inventories, case studies, online planning games, interview simulations and presentations. The format and mix of exercises are always tailored to the requirements of the target function. Our psychologically trained assessors, all with business experience, work on the basis of concepts that have been scientifically proven in multiple tests and produce reliable statements and forecasts.
